Will Place on Sale To-Day a Most Extraordinary Value in Women's High-Class
Tailored Suits at $25

As fortunate as our representative was in securing them, we regret the fact that the quantity is so limited, although those who come to examine them this morning will find a complete range of misses' and women's sizes, 16 to 44.

These Suits are made of an exceptionally fine grade of men's wear serge, in black and navy blue; the plain tailored jackets are lined with Skinner satin to match. They are built on "mannish" lines by the best men tailors and worked out by hand.

They are Suits which we believe to be the equal of any custom-tailored garments that would cost $40.00 and more. At $25.00 we are positive they excel the best tailored suits sold anywhere in Richmond.

FOUND DEAD NEGRO IN TRANSFER WAGON

Driver, Who Shot Him, Was Hurry to Physician When Horse Fell Down.

CLAIMS IT WAS ACCIDENT

Slayer Did Not Know Victim
Was Dead Until Dr. Grinnan
Examined Body.

Attracted by a negro driver's frantic cries for help when one of his horses fell and was injured yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Grace Street, near Jefferson, George T. Grinnan, of 201 West Grace Street, went to his assistance, and to his amazement found a dead negro in the wagon. It then developed that the driver wanted help for the dead man, whom he is said to have accidentally shot, and who died in the vehicle while being rushed to a doctor.

The dead man was Arthur Robinson, also a driver, twenty-two years old. After a glance at the man in the wagon, Dr. Grinnan told Jackson that he was dead.

The shooting took place at the Richmond Transfer Company's stables, Jefferson and Canal Streets. Jackson had returned from a trip with his wagon. Before he alighted he removed a revolver from the seat, and is said to have playfully pointed it at Robinson, who was standing nearby. The weapon was discharged and the young negro fell to the floor with a bullet wound in his right breast.

Racing to Find Physician.
Jackson lost no time in picking up his victim and placing him in the wagon to carry him to a physician. As he turned into Grace Street from Jefferson one of his horses fell. The negro here began shouting for help, and returned to the stables, where he was taken in custody by Police Sergeant Kraft and Patrolmen Hooker and Moore. He submitted quietly to arrest. At the Second Police Station a formal charge of murder was made against him.

Coroner Taylor viewed the body and gave permission to have it turned over to an undertaker. He will conduct an inquest this morning at 10 o'clock at the City Hall.

New Assistant at St. Paul's.
Rev. William Arthur Pearson, the new assistant minister of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, has entered upon his duties, and assisted at the church services yesterday. Mr. Pearson comes from Washington, Mo., where he was rector of Christ Church.

He will be in charge of the Chapel of the Advent, in Belvidere Street.

Says Groceries Were Stolen.
B. F. Lowery, of 2117 Venable Street, yesterday reported to the police that his house had been entered through a rear window and a quantity of groceries stolen.

MAYFLOWER SAILS

It Is Bearing Taft to Review of Great Fleet.

Woods Hole, Mass., October 12.—After a quiet Sunday on Nantucket Island with Governor General W. Cameron Forbes, of the Philippines, the President and Mrs. Taft and their guests left this afternoon on the Mayflower for New York. The Mayflower is due to reach her anchorage on the Hudson River about noon tomorrow, and the President will spend the better part of two days reviewing the fleet assembled there.

CARNIVAL GHOST STILL ON GROUNDS

Spends Melancholy Sabbath Removing Last Evidences of Virginia's Greatest Fair.

MANY SHOWS TO PETERSBURG

Diving Girls, Buckskin Ben and Chanticleer Shift to South-side Exposition.

The ghost of last week's carnival spent a melancholy Sabbath at the Fair Grounds. His corporeal self scattered to the ends of the earth, he hovered over the deserted enclosure, loath to leave for good the scene of his six-day glory.

No uncouth merry-maker came to pry, and the final act of leave-taking was unattended, except for several fair officials and a force of hired mercenaries. The day was given up to placing on board train the exhibits bound for distant exhibitions and to the packing of others preparatory to their final removal to-day.

In Industrial Hall several booths were still untouched. For the most part, these are the property of local firms and will be dismantled and removed to-day. In the desolate hall, littered with the waste and aftermath of last week's crowds, they stood guard through the Sabbath, the last survivors of Virginia's greatest fair.

Machinery Still There.

The machinery exhibit, covering several acres of ground, was yesterday almost as complete as during the week. The whirl of speeding flywheels and the sound of exploding gasolene, however, were absent. The exhibition represents in value many thousands of dollars, and was closely guarded during the day. By nightfall most of the display will be downtown in the warehouses of the owners.

Curiosity-seekers were not wholly absent. Several hundred pedestrians, chiefly of the small boy type, found their way to the grounds during the afternoon, and they stood by to see that the last act proceeded without hitch.

The other signs of life were limited to a number of workmen engaged in boxing exhibits and preparing livestock for shipment. Prize cattle and horses were still numerous, but diminished in number steadily as one batch after another was loaded into cars on the siding.

Cavalry Still Encamped.

The only portion of last week's show still on the grounds is the cavalry. The company is under orders to report this week at Harrisonburg for the horse show. It was the original intention of Captain Lindsey to make the trip cross-country from Richmond. The distance, he found, since examining into the matter, is greater than he expected, and he decided to abandon that plan. He was led to this decision because of the fact that the horses had only last Tuesday completed a long overland march from Fort Myer.

A message from the War Department Saturday instructed Captain Lindsey to hold his troop in Richmond until further orders. The men expect an order to move to-morrow. In the meantime there is a well-stocked mess tent to provide plenty of eats, and an interesting city to explore, and none of the troops is protesting.

Petersburg Gets Attractions.

The midway, which began breaking camp late Saturday night, completed its dissolution. Nothing remained of it last night but a few tattered shreds of canvas, a number of holes in the ground, and the paintless exteriors of the Old Mill and Amusement Palace.

A group of canmen, peddle-of-fortune operators left yesterday for Petersburg, where the Southside Virginia Fair opens to-morrow. From the State Fair's bill of feature acts, Petersburg will have the Patter diving girls, Buckskin Ben's Wild West Show and Chanticleer, the high wire artist, left for the North Carolina State Fair, which opens this week in Raleigh.

Wanted in Washington.

Napoleon Fleury, twenty-three years old, was arrested yesterday morning by Detective Duffy at 5-South Second Street at the request of the Washington police. Fleury is said to be wanted on charges of larceny. He has been in Richmond several weeks, and was employed in the Capital City Lunch, 525 East Main Street. Sergeant O'Brien, of Washington, came for him last night.

ROBT. G. RENNOIDS STRICKEN BY DEATH

Most Recent Public Act Was in Helping to Create New Government Plan.

ALDERMAN FOR EIGHT YEARS

President of Richmond Stove Company and Active in Business Circles.

Robert Gordon Rennolds died at his residence, 202 East Franklin Street, in this city, yesterday at 12:30 A. M. He was a native of Fredericksburg, Va. His early manhood was spent in that city, and his interest in and love for Fredericksburg and its people were sincere and unfeigned.

Mr. Rennolds was the only son of Dr. Robert B. Rennolds and Caroline Gordon, his wife, and his early education was obtained in the home of his father and in the private school of Judge Coleman. Subsequently he was a student at Randolph-Macon College, from which institution he graduated, and while there was a classmate of Dr. R. E. Blackwell, its present president.

After leaving college Mr. Rennolds entered upon a successful business career, first with the banking house of Conway, Gordon & Garnett, in Fredericksburg. Later he came to Richmond, and was for a time a member of the firm of H. B. Talliaferro & Company, wholesale commission merchants. In 1880, with the late W. J. Anderson, he purchased the Richmond Stove Company, and under their management this business grew to be one of the large manufacturing enterprises of this city. His business interests were varied; he was a director of the National Bank of Virginia, and upon the consolidation of that bank with the First National Bank, he was chosen a director of the new institution.

Mr. Rennolds gave freely of his time and thought to the development and progress of this city, and upon matters involving the interests of Richmond his counsel and advice were often sought. He was a member of the Board of Aldermen from Monday, 1912, when the wards of the city were reduced and reorganized. He was a valued and useful member of the Finance Committee of the City Council, and to him, perhaps more than any other man, was due the settlement to the distinct advantage of the city of the electrolysis controversy, which some years ago arose between the city of Richmond and the predecessors of the Virginia Railway and Power Company. He was also a member of the committee which drafted the ordinance providing for the government of Richmond by an Administrative Board, and was an active advocate of that measure in the sessions of the Board of Aldermen.

Modest and unassuming though he was, his knowledge of the best in literature, his simplicity and directness of manner and character made him a charming companion, and compelled the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

On January 8, 1888, Mr. Rennolds was married in old St. James Church to Miss Nellie Addison, the oldest daughter of E. B. Addison of this city. He is survived by his widow and four children, Edmund Addison, Robert Gordon, Jr., Nellie Addison Rennolds and Mrs. Hiram M. Smith, all of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. J. Evans Martin and Miss Elizabeth Rennolds, of Fredericksburg, as well as a large family connection in that city.

The funeral services will be held in St. James Episcopal Church, Birch and Franklin Streets, of which he was a member, on Tuesday, October 15 at 11 A. M.

NEGRO GIRL ARRESTED

Entered State While Suffering From Scarlet Fever, Is Charged.

Nora Jackson, colored, nineteen years old, was arrested last night by Acting Detective Duffy on a warrant charging her with entering the State while suffering from scarlet fever and exposing citizens to the disease. She was found at her home, 423 Gilmer Street, which had been quarantined by the city health authorities since the first of this month. As soon as the quarantine was lifted the arrest was made, and she was bailed for her appearance in Police Court next Friday morning.

A letter from Dr. Charles H. Peete, of Warrenton, N. C., to the local Health Department, stated that the girl had broken quarantine at that place and come to Richmond. Investigation was at once made, and she was located at the Gilmer Street address, and the place was immediately quarantined. A report of the matter was made to the State Health Department, and Dr. E. S. Williams, Commissioner, directed Commonwealth's Attorney Minister Polke to cause her arrest for violating the State health laws.

CENTENNIAL OF UNION SEMINARY

Special Services Mark Anniversary of Presbyterian Theological School.

TWO SYNODS HERE THIS WEEK

Great Mass-Meeting Planned at City Auditorium Wednesday Night.

Historical addresses commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of Union Theological Seminary were delivered yesterday in the seminary chapel. At the morning service, Rev. W. W. Moore, D. D., president of the seminary, spoke on the first fifty years of the institution, and at night Rev. Theron H. Rice, D. D., spoke on the work of the second half century. It is anticipated that the two addresses, with other historical papers to be delivered during this week before the Synods of Virginia and North Carolina, will be later published in book form.

Founding of the Seminary.

Dr. Moore told graphically of the founding of the seminary at Hampden-Sydney, in Prince Edward County, in 1812, and of its part in the development of Presbyterianism throughout the South up to the outbreak of the War Between the States. To Rev. John Holt Rice, D. D., founder of the seminary and first pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city, Dr. Moore paid special tribute as an organizer and worker of exceptional note, having, in addition to his labor in the church and seminary, been the founder of the Virginia Bible Society and later part founder of the American Bible Society, and founder of the first religious periodical regularly issued in this country—a Presbyterian weekly issued for many years in Richmond.

To one other man Dr. Moore ascribed much of the credit for the success of the first half century of the seminary—Rev. Robert L. Dabney, D. D., a scholar and theologian and writer who left a deep impression on the theological thought of his day. Besides ranking high among authorities on Greek and Hebrew, Dr. Dabney was thoroughly familiar with the subject of church history, which was his chair at Union Seminary for many years. He was the author of several volumes on theology, which are still used as text books.

Was in Confederate Army.

An ardent Confederate, Dr. Dabney was a leader in the events preceding the War Between the States, and in the formation of a separate Presbyterian General Assembly in the South, and his book defending the course of the State of Virginia in secession and in course before and during the war remains one of the clearest expositions of the subject, and a standard authority among historical students. At the outbreak of the war, Dr. Dabney became a chaplain in the Confederate army, and was later appointed a major and member of the staff of General Stonewall Jackson, which position he held until his health failed from the exposure of camp life, compelling his retirement from active service in the field.

In closing, Dr. Moore made special reference to the long roll of alumni of Union Seminary who entered the Confederate army either as chaplains or in the ranks, a number being killed in battle, while some who are still honored ministers of the church, rose to prominence in the Confederate service. Dr. Rice last night took up the period of development since the war, the extension of Presbyterianism throughout the South, the valuable home mission work done by those who have gone out from the institution, and especially the efforts of those graduates of the seminary who have in the past fifty years represented the Presbyterian Church at missionary posts established on every continent.

Synod Meets To-Morrow Night.

The special services at Union Seminary yesterday began what will be known as "Presbyterian Week." The Presbyterian Synod of Virginia will meet at the First Presbyterian Church to-morrow night in annual session, having in attendance more than 400 ministers and elders, representing 511 Presbyterian churches in Virginia, West Virginia, and Maryland.

On Wednesday afternoon special centennial services will be held at Union Seminary under the joint auspices of the Synods of Virginia and North Carolina. The Synod of North Carolina, which meets this week at Goldsboro, will come to Richmond Wednesday morning on a special train provided by George W. Watts, of Durham, and an arrival will be entertained at the Richmond Hotel and at the seminary. If the weather is favorable, the afternoon exercises will be held on the campus of Union Seminary, in the presence of members of the two synods.

Mass-Meeting at Auditorium.

Wednesday night a great Presbyterian mass-meeting is planned to be held in the City Auditorium, when a number of addresses will be made. Next Sunday the First Presbyterian Church will celebrate its one hundredth anniversary, when historical addresses will be delivered by Rev. R. P. Kerr, D. D., a former pastor, and by Rev. William S. Plummer Bryan, D. D., of Chicago, a grandson of a former pastor, Rev. William S. Plummer. A new organ recently installed in the First Presbyterian Church was used yesterday for the first time. It is said to be one of the finest instruments of its kind in Richmond.

POLICE TRANSFER

Bicycle Squad Switch Districts by Board's Order To-Day.

The change recently ordered by the Board of Police Commissioners transferring all members of the bicycle squad from the First District to the Second, will be inaugurated this morning.

It is probable that Bicycle Policeman Clarke will remain, for a short time at least, in the Second District, as it is understood that he will be detailed for duty as a motorcycle officer because of the illness of Motorcycle Officer Thurman.

No reason has been given out for the change. Chief of Police Werner and the commissioners merely saying that it was made "for the good of the service."

WATCHMAN SHOT HIMSELF IN BREAST

P. H. Ford Accidentally Discharges Revolver While Examining It.

P. H. Ford, sixty-seven years old, a watchman, accidentally shot and killed himself yesterday morning about 7:30 o'clock while examining a revolver at his home, corner of Potomac and Battery Streets, Fulton Hill. The only occupant of the room beside himself was his twelve-year-old granddaughter, Grace. The child screamed, but her mother, Mrs. Mamie Strang, daughter of Mr. Ford, had heard the gunshot and hurried into the room. She found her father dead.

How the weapon went off is a mystery. Mr. Ford, it was learned, was inspecting it with the idea of buying it from a friend who had left it for the purpose of examination. The child said her grandfather was standing at the time, and that after he had been wounded he walked several steps and fell upon the floor.

Mounted Policeman Toot was summoned, and he immediately notified Coroner Taylor. The latter viewed the body, and the right breast, causing almost immediate death. As the case was apparently accidental, he decided that an inquest would be unnecessary, and turned the body over to the family.

Mr. Ford was a widower. He leaves a large family of children and grandchildren. He was employed as a watchman by the Kentucky Tobacco Company.

NEGRO SHOT AND ROBBED

Two Highwaymen Take $15 From Hanover County Farmer.

Addison Robinson, colored, twenty-five years old, a farmer of Hanover County, was held up, shot and robbed of $15 in currency yesterday morning about 2 o'clock by two unidentified men. The latter escaped, although Acting Detective Duffy attempted to pursue them in a buggy.

Robinson, with several children, was driving a country cart to his home when the hold-up occurred. One of the highwaymen grabbed the horse by the bridle, while the second leaped into the vehicle. Robinson showed signs of fight, and the stranger drew a revolver and fired. The bullet, after passing through his hand, entered his right breast, inflicting a flesh wound.

The thief went through Robinson's clothing and took the money, and with his companion fled in the darkness. Mounted Policeman Shumaker was attracted by the pistol shot, but when he arrived on the scene the highwaymen had escaped. The first Police Station was notified, and Duffy was detailed on the case.

Robinson was treated by Dr. O. C. Page, City Hospital ambulance surgeon, and removed to the hospital. His condition last night was not regarded as serious.

So far as is known, there is no clue to the identity of the highwaymen.

MONUMENT OPEN TO PUBLIC VIEW

Gettysburg Memorial on Exhibition This Week for First and Last Time Here.

For the first time, the monument which is to be erected to the memory of Virginia's soldiers at Gettysburg has been placed on public exhibition. All this week those who desire to see the finished group which is to go to the base, and which is to be unveiled on the battlefield next July, are invited to go to the studio of the sculptor, F. W. Sievers, at Forest Hill.

This is not only the first opportunity, but it will be the last for all those who will never visit the Gettysburg battlefield. Within a day or two experts will be at work making the plaster molds, from which the bronze will be cast. When their work is done and the molds are sent to the foundry, the platinite group will be destroyed. Visitors may take the Forest Hill cars to the last stop before turning into the park. The studio is three blocks west and half a block south, and will be pointed out by any one in the neighborhood.

Base Already in Place.

The base of the monument, made of North Carolina granite, is now in place in the section allotted to it on the battlefield, at the spot where General Lee watched the onset of the Union forces. A photograph of the platinite position. The block on which the group is to rest is of immense size, and was put in place with the greatest difficulty. The location is a beautiful one, and will be visited by many people. Virginia is the first Southern State to so honor her soldiers at Gettysburg.

The group now on exhibition is unique, presenting a new feature in work of this kind. It comprises seven figures—a cavalryman mounted, with the flag bearing the Virginia seal in his grasp; four infantrymen with muskets, an artilleryman with pistol in his act of firing, and an artillery bugler. It is the work of Mr. Sievers's life.

It is probable that the equestrian statue of General Lee, on Traveler, which is to surmount the monument, will not be ready to be put in place before the end of next year. But the group now on exhibition will be unveiled on the fifth anniversary of the battle—next July.

GENERAL MEETING CALLED BY CLUB

Westmoreland to Pass on Question of Increasing Membership to 500.

The board of management of the Westmoreland Club has called a general meeting for November 12, at which time the question of increasing the membership from 450 to 500 will be put to a vote. On the ground that the club's accommodations have been increased, with the drift of population to the West End, and because of the fact that the big waiting list puts a new member in approximately two years after his election, a petition was prepared and presented to the board asking that the membership be increased. The board, at a meeting held on October 8, unanimously agreed that in its opinion the change will tend to the best interest of the club, and accordingly, a general meeting has been called to approve or reject the petition, an amendment to the constitution being necessary to grant it. Three years ago the constitution was changed and the club increased its membership from 400 to 450. There are now forty-seven members on the waiting list, some of whom were elected nearly two years ago. The Westmoreland flag has been at least three times within the week—for W. Minor Woodward, J. L. Antrim and Robert G. Rennolds.

Mrs. Purdie Improving.
Mrs. J. A. Purdie, wife of Magistrate Purdie, of 402 West Marshall Street, who was operated upon recently at the Retreat for the Sick, was removed to her home yesterday. She was said to be rapidly recovering.

LAW WILL BE TESTED.

Requires Seats for Clerks While They Are Not Engaged.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Wilmington, N. C., October 13.—The North Carolina law requiring proprietors of stores to have seats in their establishments for the use of the clerks while the clerks are not engaged in waiting on customers is to be enforced, or at least tested, in Wilmington. O. H. Shoemaker, manager of the big store of S. H. Kress & Co., has been arrested for failure to observe this law and will be tried to-morrow. Seven women and three men are witnesses against him. It is said that a number of merchants who have not observed the law are preparing to carry out its mandate.
